

Title “New Live Ministry Series (LMS) Session -- Judy: Infant Primary Caregiver Absence Wounds”

October 20, 2019

Greetings all,

Fun news – As I mentioned in an earlier e-newsletter, I have spent about a thousand hours over the last nine months working on ten new Live Ministry Series sessions. They are all now finished!

Here is the summary for another one of the new sessions (this is a really amazing, beautiful session!), and I have included links (below) to the two previews for this session (Preview1 is for the first half of the session, and Preview 2 is for the second half of the session):

Session summary: In this 2019 session, we see a perfect example of the blockage that usually prevents healing for infant, primary caregiver absence-wounds – the infant in the memory insists that she will only receive the love she needs from her primary caregiver, and therefore refuses to allow anyone else to fill the absence-wound hole. This session also provides a beautiful example of one of the most important, simplest, and most effective Immanuel Approach tools – I coach Judy to engage directly with Jesus regarding the problem. As I repeatedly, persistently coach Judy to talk directly to Jesus about her desire to receive the love she needs from her mom, and as I coach her to ask Jesus for help, Jesus implements several beautiful, masterful interventions that resolve this blockage. He coaxes her by reminding her of a previous session in which another, different child part was able to receive beautiful comfort and healing from God; He enables Judy to see her mother’s true heart, longing for Judy to let Jesus give her the love she needs; and He offers her infant internal part a “test drive” option, in which she can try the option of receiving from Jesus for just a moment. When Judy’s infant internal part finally decides to allow Jesus to fill her absence wound hole, she receives profound, beautiful healing.
