

Title: “Resources for Introducing People to the Immanuel Approach”

November 7, 2022

A number of you have told me that you sometimes don't know which resources to use when you are trying to tell someone about the Immanuel Approach. So I have dramatically upgraded the Getting Started page to include a much more generous and varied buffet of introductory resources. You can review the new-and-improved Getting Started page to remind yourself regarding what's available as you discern what would be the best fit for particular people in your life. Or you can just share the link or scan code with those who are wanting to learn about the Immanuel Approach – they can look over the rich buffet of options, and choose those that best fit their interest, time, and personal learning style. Also, you can print out specific documents that you want to have on hand for sharing with clients, colleagues, friends, etc.

NOTE: Quite a few of the resources on the new-and-improved Getting Started page are new, such as the Immanuel Approach Introductory/Promotional “Pamphlet” that some of you have been asking for (one page, both sides), the super-short introduction that some of you have been asking for (only 5.5 pages), and the availability of condensed versions of four basic live-ministry sessions as online courses/digital downloads.

May you be especially blessed as you use these new resources in sharing about the Immanuel Approach with your family, friends, colleagues, clients, therapists, parishioners, pastors, and occasionally people you sit next to on the airplane.

In Christ,

Dr. Lehman/Karl

Link: <https://www.immanuelapproach.com/getting-started/>

